

RICHMOND'S CONSERVATION RESERVE FUND

What is the Conservation Reserve Fund?

Richmond voters established the Fund in 2005 to enable the Town to better participate in important conservation projects. It allows Richmond to quickly work with willing property owners, non-profits and community volunteer groups to protect important local natural, agricultural and historic resources.

Since 2005 voters have supported the Fund with a penny on the tax rate ($10 per $100,000 of property valuation per year). The Fund is voted upon annually. Last year the vote was 927-358 in favor of renewal. Voting this year is on or before March 1.

How has the CRF been used?

As shown on the reverse, the Fund has supported numerous important conservation projects ranging from Town forests to protecting recreational treasures, working farms and historic preservation.

Why was the Fund created?

In a growing town like ours, conservation opportunities can arise at any time – and just as rapidly disappear, often forever. This can make it hard to plan for or quickly find the significant amounts of money needed today to conserve important and vulnerable resources. Richmond's Fund continues to enable the Conservation Commission, Selectboard and the public to carefully review and still quickly act on key conservation opportunities.

The Fund has also greatly reduced our Town's costs of conservation. Many state, federal and private conservation funders require communities to share in project costs to show that voters support conservation. Voter-financed funds such as ours provide the needed proof, qualifying projects for very significant additional funding. So far, every dollar Richmond taxpayers have invested in conservation has generated $4.18 in funding from other sources – over $1.5 million in all.

How are funding decisions made?

Proposals are made to the Conservation Commission. The Selectboard makes the final decisions after considering the Conservation Commission's recommendations. Both bodies deliberate in public sessions. Voters must approve using the Fund for any land acquisitions by the Town over $20,000.

What does the Fund cost taxpayers?

By adding one cent to the municipal tax rate (1.3%), renewing the Fund would cost taxpayers $10 for every $100,000 of a property's assessment. That would generate an estimated $48,128 for important conservation projects across town.

Does conserving land raise or lower property taxes overall?

An expert on Vermont tax policy, Deborah Brighton, has researched this and shown how conserving land helps keep property taxes in check. She says, "Open space tends to require few public services. More people tend to require more public services, resulting in higher taxes."

Furthermore, nearly all conserved land in Richmond, being privately held, continues generating tax revenues. (The exceptions are the Andrews Community Forest and the Stage Road Community Forest, as they are Town-owned.) To qualify for public funds, landowners usually must guarantee public access to conserved land as warranted for hiking, hunting, fishing, skiing and other activities (one exception being land used for agriculture or livestock grazing).

What kinds of new projects does the Conservation Commission foresee?

Applications include saving Gillett Pond by helping fund a new dam. Other projects may be proposed at any time, as was the case with the Andrews Community Forest.

The Conservation Reserve Fund positions Richmond to consider and act on opportunities fairly, efficiently and in a timely way. It's also living, dollars-and-cents proof that our community embraces conservation, helping attract and qualify Richmond for major funding from foundations, agencies and other large donors.
